

Cook Quench Rice and Pasta Cooking System

Industrial Pasta, Rice and Cook-Quench Systems

Total Food Machines supplies industrial pasta and rice cooking systems for ready-meal producers, central kitchens and high-volume food manufacturing facilities.

These versatile systems provide controlled and consistent cooking of pasta, rice, noodles, potatoes, vegetables, pulses, grains and many other food products.

Our European-manufactured T&S range includes industrial multi cookers and complete cook-quench systems. Models can be configured around the required product, batch capacity, heating method and production process.

Automatic lifting and tilting cooking baskets make loading, cooking and product discharge more efficient. Hydrodynamic water agitation helps keep pasta and rice separated during cooking, improving consistency and reducing product sticking.

Cook-quench systems combine controlled cooking with rapid cooling. This helps stop the cooking process at the correct time, protects product quality and prepares cooked ingredients for chilled ready-meal and prepared-food production.
